According to the World Economic Forum, Taiwan ranked 37th in this year's global Travel and Tourism Competitiveness Report, up six notches than last year's record. Being the successful host of the two international events in the past two years, the 2009 World Games in Kaohsiung and 2010 Deaf Olympics in Taipei has crowned Taiwan to be one of the most friendly and lively places to visit. Taiwan has proved and shown to the world for her adequate competence to organize international sport games with success. Surely the running International Flora Exposition in Taipei will also win Taiwan with more international credits for her innovative and environmental-friendly ideas. The major contribution of these international events to Taiwan is to enhance Taiwan's visibility by the large number of tourists coming to Taiwan to do business or sightseeing.

As a Taiwanese, please name three local features (people, place, food) you regard them, to some extent, to fully represent Taiwan when you introduce to foreign guests and provide three reasons for each of the item you list. Please also express your opinions in no more than one paragraph.
